The Customer, a retail company that had undergone significant mergers and acquisitions, was facing a complex and inefficient IT landscape. To support its growth goals through online and offline channels, the company needed a clear plan to integrate its various retail solutions into a single strategy across the European region. The goal was to leverage underutilized technologies to add value for its brands and customers.	My task was to develop a strategic roadmap for an integrated core retail platform that aligned with the customer's role as a technology enabler, driving omnichannel growth and operational excellence. This roadmap needed to outline a 1-3 year development horizon and include a capability assessment to increase maturity.	Comprehensive Discovery Scan: Conducted a comprehensive discovery scan of the entire enterprise's business and application landscape to identify current capabilities and gaps. Capability Analysis: Performed a detailed capability analysis, optimization, and planning. Application-Capability Mapping: Mapped application functions onto enterprise capabilities to ensure alignment with business goals. Stakeholder Collaboration: Collaborated with key stakeholders to define and refine the strategic roadmap. Report Delivery: Delivered a detailed discovery report with a comprehensive overview of the current enterprise landscape, which simplified management decision-making. Roadmap Development: Developed a detailed strategic roadmap for developing the core retail platform.	Clear and Comprehensive Overview: The customer was provided with a clear and comprehensive overview of the current enterprise landscape, simplifying management decision-making. Detailed Strategic Roadmap: A detailed strategic roadmap for developing the core retail platform was delivered, ensuring alignment with the customer's business objectives and technological advancements. Value-Added Technologies: The work enabled the customer to leverage underutilized technologies, driving further impact and value for their brands and customers. Informed Decisions: The clear and structured strategic plan enabled the client to make informed decisions on platform development and transformation. Investment Optimization: The roadmap helped the company avoid functional duplication and optimize IT investments.
